MESSAGE

Dear Colleague:

In today’s highly competitive business climate, our reputation depends largely on our integrity.

For more than 75 years, Highmark Inc. has served our community with integrity and is committed to maintaining the highest standards. In a business of trust, we believe behaving ethically, lawfully and with integrity is the only way to maintain public trust. Building a strong reputation is difficult, but losing it is easy. That is particularly true today as the health care industry, including health insurers, is under increasing scrutiny. Questionable or unlawful acts quickly erode public confidence, causing customers and other stakeholders to lose trust.

At Highmark Inc., we embrace our Corporate Values. We recognize that it is not enough to merely comply with laws and regulations. We believe that it is imperative to abide by the highest ethical standards in serving our customers and communities and dealing with our fellow employees. Therefore, it is important that we do not lose sight of one basic principle of integrity—“We care not only for the end result but how it is obtained.” This means conducting ourselves with integrity in everything we do. The responsibilities and expectations found in the Code of Business Conduct are not new. Highmark Inc.’s Code of Business Conduct forms the backbone of our ethical culture. In fact, over the years it has become the cornerstone of Highmark Inc.’s commitment to integrity, one of our core values.

All concerns deserve proper attention, no matter how small they are. If you are unsure about what to do in a given situation or something just is not quite right, you are encouraged to consult with your manager or supervisor. You are also encouraged to contact Integrity and Compliance using the resources outlined in this guide. We are counting on your assistance in preserving and strengthening our long-standing tradition as an ethical organization.

David L. Holmberg
President and Chief Executive Officer
Highmark Health

Melissa M. Anderson
Executive Vice President, Chief Auditor and Compliance Officer, Highmark Health
The Highmark Inc. Code of Business Conduct ("Code") establishes the standards of business conduct expected of all of us and reflects our commitment to the highest standards of ethical business conduct. This Code provides a process for complying with our legal and ethical responsibilities and requirements, and that no one is forced to act in an unethical or illegal manner.

The Code applies to all members of the Board of Directors, officers and all employees of Highmark Inc. and the organizations listed at the beginning of this Code (these other organizations are collectively referred to as “Subsidiaries” in this guide). For the purposes of this Code, the use of “Highmark Inc.” refers to Highmark Inc. and its Subsidiaries. These standards apply to all of our relationships with our customers, suppliers, and each other.

In addition, the Code reinforces the principle that each and every one of us, including senior management, officers, employees and the members of the Board of Directors of Highmark Inc., has a responsibility to help ensure that we, as a company, operate legally and ethically in its business conduct.

We each have an obligation to understand and follow the principles outlined in this Code. We certify annually our commitment to abide by the Code and company policies.

Our Shared Responsibilities: The Highmark Inc. Integrity and Compliance Program

To be effective, Highmark Inc.’s Integrity and Compliance Program requires everyone’s personal commitment. The Program is guided by our core Values and Principles of Integrity and is designed to promote a culture that encourages ethical behavior and commitment to comply with applicable federal and state laws, rules, regulations, and guidance.

Ethical Leadership and Accountability

Leaders at all levels have the responsibility to set the example by always being role models of appropriate behavior. Ethical leadership at Highmark Inc. begins with the Board of Directors and senior leaders setting the ethical direction. By incorporating “integrity” as one of Highmark Inc.’s corporate values, our leaders aspire to maintain a corporate culture that not only embraces the principle of doing the right things, but also doing things the right way.

Management Responsibilities

Management must encourage open communication about ethical and compliance issues that may arise. A vital component of this responsibility is to communicate regularly with each person on your team and to actively promote Highmark Inc.’s values and ethical standards so that all of your employees understand how the Code and the Integrity and Compliance Program guide them in their decision process.

Compliance Officer and Integrity and Compliance

The Compliance Officer, who is appointed by the Boards of Directors of Highmark Inc. and its Subsidiaries, has overall responsibility for the Highmark Inc. integrity and compliance program. Integrity and Compliance, under the direction of the Compliance Officer, administers the program, including the Code. The Compliance Officer and Integrity and Compliance Department staff are available to offer you guidance and support towards Highmark Inc.’s commitment to doing the right thing.

Employee Responsibilities

Highmark Inc. maintains corporate policies in a variety of areas (e.g., Human Resources, Finance, Privacy and Security, and Information Technology) which provide detailed guidance on company expectations and requirements for behavior in the workplace and while conducting company business. These policies support and supplement this Code. Annually, each employee is required to attest that they understand and agree to abide by the Code and the policies within their respective company. Employee attendance and participation in compliance program activities, including fraud, waste, and abuse training, is a job performance expectation and a condition of continued employment. Additionally, all employees are expected to cooperate and assist in the resolution of identified compliance issues. Failure to do so may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment. Highmark Inc. provides information and training to all employees so that they have an understanding of fraud, waste, and abuse laws including the False Claims Act, whistleblower protections, and the role employees play in the Company’s compliance program. By committing to these responsibilities, we will continue to meet the expectations of conducting our business with integrity.
If something does not feel right, then it might not be the right thing to do. You are not expected to know how to respond to every situation. However, you are expected to use good judgment in your decision making. When situations arise, you should use the following guide to assist you in seeking the proper course of action.

ETHICAL DECISION-MAKING MODEL

If you answer “no” to any question, don’t do it. If you are unsure, seek the help of your management or the Integrity and Compliance Department.
Personal Obligation to Report

In carrying out our day-to-day business activities, we need to be sensitive to situations that could lead us or others to violate the Code or other Highmark Inc. policies. If you are aware, or become aware, of a potential or actual violation of the Code, you must report it to management or Integrity and Compliance as soon as possible. If the potential or actual violation of the Code involves your immediate supervisor, you must report it to the next highest level of management or the Integrity and Compliance Department. Failure to report a violation of the Code may subject you to disciplinary action.

All reports of suspected violations will be promptly investigated by Integrity and Compliance. A thorough investigation will be conducted and when necessary, corrective actions will be implemented. In certain instances, Highmark Inc. may report the matter to government agencies for further investigation. We are expected to fully cooperate with the Integrity and Compliance Department and respond completely and truthfully to any and all questions. When asked, we must refrain from discussing such inquiries to protect integrity of the investigation.

We each have the responsibility to question or challenge situations that we suspect are illegal, unethical or which violate our Code or company policies.

What types of suspected misconduct should be reported to management or the Integrity and Compliance Department?

Some examples are:

- submitting false timesheets or expense reports
- identifying an overpayment
- lying or not cooperating during an investigation
- an ethical dilemma or a suspected violation of the Code

To report an ethics or compliance concern, call the Integrity Helpline at 1-800-985-1056.
QUESTION

I saw my supervisor engaged in an activity that is against the principles of the Code. The matter does not concern me personally. What should I do?

ANSWER

Even though the matter does not concern you personally, you have an obligation to report any suspected violations to the next highest level of management and/or to Integrity and Compliance. You may use the anonymous Integrity Helpline or other confidential means to report this concern. Highmark Inc. maintains a reprisal-free environment and has a policy of non-retaliation and non-intimidation to encourage employees to raise ethical or legal concerns in good faith.

Protection from Retaliation and Intimidation

To encourage employees to raise ethical or legal concerns in good faith, Highmark Inc. maintains a reprisal-free environment and has a policy of non-retaliation and non-intimidation. Retaliation or intimidation is prohibited against those who, in good faith, report an alleged violation or who cooperate in an investigation or legal proceeding related to an alleged violation. Management must refrain from speculating or questioning individuals in an effort to determine who might have reported a possible violation or cooperated in an investigation. Such behavior can give the appearance of retaliation or can be perceived as intimidation by an individual who has reported or is thinking of reporting a matter to Human Resources or Integrity and Compliance. Any employee who engages in intimidation or retaliatory activity is subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment. This policy is not to be used to bring knowingly false accusations of misconduct against other employees. Any accusation or complaint shown to be made in bad faith will also be considered a violation of this Code and will be subject to similar disciplinary action.

If you raise questions or report concerns regarding potential or actual fraud, waste, and abuse matters in connection with any of our government programs, you are protected from retaliation and retribution for False Claims Act complaints, as well as any other applicable anti-retaliation protections. The federal and state False Claims Acts also protect anyone who files a False Claims lawsuit from being fired, demoted, threatened, or harassed by their employer for filing the suit. Additional employee whistleblower protections were established under the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2013. Similar to the False Claims Act, we cannot discharge, demote, or otherwise discriminate against an employee as a reprisal for disclosing information (except for classified information) that the employee reasonably believes is evidence of any of the following: a gross mismanagement of a federal contract or grant; a gross waste of federal funds; an abuse of authority relating to a federal contract or grant; a substantial and specific danger to public health or safety; or a violation of law, rule, or regulation related to a federal contract (including competition for or negotiation of a contract) or grant. Employees who disclose these types of information to the following persons or entities are protected: a member of Congress or a representative of a committee of Congress; an Inspector General; the Government Accountability Office; a federal employee responsible for contract or grant oversight or management at the relevant federal agency; an authorized official of the Department of Justice or other law enforcement agency; a court or grand jury; or their management or the Compliance Department, who has the responsibility to investigate, discover, or address misconduct.

Pursuant to the Defend Trade Secrets Act of 2016, an individual may not be held criminally or civilly liable under any federal or state trade secret law for the disclosure of a trade secret that: (a) is made in confidence to a federal, state, or local government official, either directly or indirectly, or to an attorney; and solely for the purpose of reporting or investigating a suspected violation of law; or (b) is made in a complaint or other document that is filed under seal in a lawsuit or other proceeding.

What is good faith reporting?

Good Faith Reporting is:

• raising an issue or concern in a timely manner with no ulterior motive; or raising an issue or concern that could be a violation of the Code, law, regulation, or Highmark Inc.’s policy.

Good Faith Reporting is not:

• making frivolous reports to get someone in trouble
• reporting something only when you are facing disciplinary action
Further, an individual who files a lawsuit for retaliation by an employer for reporting a suspected violation of law may disclose the employer’s trade secrets to the attorney and use the trade secret information in the court proceeding if the individual: (a) files any document containing the trade secret under seal; and (b) does not disclose the trade secret, except pursuant to court order.

Disciplinary Action

Disciplinary or corrective action in response to substantiated allegations is an integral part of the Highmark Inc. Integrity and Compliance Program. If you experienced or are aware of any ethical or compliance concern, you have a personal obligation to report it. Knowledge of a possible violation of a law that is not reported may result in disciplinary action. Failure to comply with the Code and Highmark Inc.’s policies could result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment. The severity of the discipline depends on the nature of the violation.

Corporate Reporting Requirements

All employees must report any evidence of a violation of a law or regulation as well as breach of fiduciary duty or similar violation by Highmark Inc., its employees, subsidiaries, affiliates or agents to either the Chief Legal Officer or the Chief Executive Officer.

To report an ethics or compliance concern, call the Integrity Helpline at 1-800-985-1056

You may contact the Highmark Inc.’s Law Department for guidance.

Public Representation of Highmark

When communicating publicly, you must be cognizant of keeping your personal views separate from communications you make and actions you take on behalf of the company.

Communications with Government Officials

Employees who are part of personal membership groups (examples include, not are not limited to, local or state medical societies, specialty physician societies, pharmacist trade association, etc.) and are planning to participate in an advocacy action on behalf of that trade group must notify the Government Affairs Department. For example, an employee who is called to testify or write a letter in support or opposition of regulation is not permitted to represent the Company in any form unless expressly permitted by Government Affairs.

Additionally, any public communication on a public policy on behalf of the Company must be done under the direction of the Government Affairs Department. Employees are required to comply with Corporate Policy 22.02 – Communications with Government Officials as well as all applicable federal, state, local, and corporate codes of conduct and requirements when representing the Company before government bodies and officials.

Before destroying records, always check the record retention policy and schedule to determine if the applicable retention period has expired.

In addition, always check with your manager, Records Management and/or the Law Department to determine if the records are the subject of a Legal Hold Notice. Records that are the subject of a Legal Hold Notice must continue to be preserved and may not be altered or destroyed without approval from the Law Department, even if the regular retention period that would otherwise apply to such records has expired.

Confidential Information

Confidential Information includes all information either generated by the company or made available to the company for purposes of conducting its business operations. Confidential information is further subdivided into the following nine (9) categories: Financial Information, Human Resource Information, Group Customer Account Information, Proprietary Information, Provider Information, Competitively Sensitive Information (CSI), Protected Health Information (PHI), Personally Identifiable Information (PII) and Non-Public Personal Information (NPPI). For additional information concerning appropriate use and disclosures of this data, refer to the Highmark “Preserving Trust through Privacy and Information Management Policies and Procedures” or to Policy 132, Information Use, Management and Disclosure. You may also contact the Data Ethics, Policy, and Privacy Department at privacy@highmark.com for additional information.

Highmark Inc. maintains data used in its business operations in strictest confidence, and according to established ethical standards and applicable federal and state laws and regulations. Safeguarding Confidential Information is every employee’s responsibility. If you have any questions, contact the Data Ethics, Policy, and Privacy Department.

Competitively Sensitive Information

Competitively Sensitive Information (CSI) is non-public information held by Highmark Health which includes: past, present, and future reimbursement rates and rate schedules; contracts with providers; contracts with payers; any term or condition in a payer-provider agreement that could be used to gain an unfair commercial advantage over a competitor or supplier, including but not limited to discounts, reimbursement methodologies, and provisions relating to performance, pay for performance, pay for value, tiering of providers, cost data, and methodologies including specific cost and member information and revenue, or discharge information specific to the payer or provider; contract negotiations or negotiating positions, including but not limited to offers, counteroffers, party positions, and thought processes; specific plans regarding future negotiations or dealings with payers or providers; and claims reimbursement data.

All Highmark Health companies have adopted policies for the protection of CSI. These policies prohibit the sharing of Competitively Sensitive Information among certain corporate affiliates of Highmark Health. The improper sharing of CSI could result in the reduction of competition, competitive innovation, or pricing, as well as notice to the Pennsylvania Insurance Department (PID). Employees should refer to Highmark Health’s “Policy Protecting Competitively Sensitive Information” or to their company’s policy to understand their obligations to safeguard CSI. Questions concerning specific uses of CSI should be submitted to: Infomgmtdecisions@highmarkhealth.org.

QUESTION

A famous athlete has received treatment that is covered by one of our plans. Would it be a violation of this Code and the Highmark Inc. Handbook of Privacy Policies and Practices if I just look up the procedure code in the system? I am not going to tell anyone.

ANSWER

Yes. To do so would be a violation of Highmark Inc.’s Privacy Policies as well as the HIPAA Privacy Rule because members of Highmark Inc.’s workforce may only use, disclose, or request the minimum necessary Protected Health Information to accomplish the intended purpose as it relates to the performance of their jobs. Looking up a customer’s procedure out of curiosity is a violation of law and company policy and could lead to disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

Conflicts of interest may arise when outside personal interests, employment, or affiliations influence or create the appearance of influencing business decisions. Business affiliations and financial interests by immediate family members or by persons with whom an employee, officer, or member of the board of directors has a close personal relationship may also create a possible conflict of interest.

Employees, officers, and members of the board of directors must avoid situations where personal interests appear to conflict or actually conflict or compete with the interests of Highmark Inc. For instance, it is a conflict of interest to work simultaneously for Highmark Inc. and a competitor of Highmark Inc. In addition, certain affiliations such as employment or serving as a board member with a Supplier, provider or customer may create a potential conflict of interest situation depending on the employee’s position with Highmark Inc. An example of prohibited activity is selling products similar to those offered by Highmark Inc. for a competitor of Highmark Inc.

Following are some basic details to remember about conflict of interest (COI) disclosures:

- Disclose all potential or actual conflicts when completing the COI disclosure statement at the time of hire and annually.
- Keep your COI disclosure statement updated at all times by reporting new disclosures as they occur.
- Direct any questions regarding potential or actual conflicts of interest to your supervisor, manager, or the Integrity and Compliance Department. Integrity and Compliance can be reached via the Helpline (1-800-985-1056) or email (Integrity@Highmark.com).

To further ensure independent decision making, Highmark Inc. shall not directly or indirectly, including through any subsidiary, extend or maintain credit, arrange for the extension of credit, or renew an extension of credit in the form of a personal loan to or for any member of the board of directors or officer.

Gifts, Gratuities, and Entertainment

Employees, officers, and members of the board of directors are discouraged from accepting or offering any gift or entertainment that is not incidental to a business relationship.

As a general rule, gifts and entertainment of a nominal nature may be an acceptable business practice as a means to build corporate goodwill. However, offering or accepting gifts or entertainment that are not incidental to a business relationship, or might be perceived to be primarily intended to gain favor or to compromise a business decision, must be avoided. Examples of inappropriate gifts and entertainment include:

- lavish dinners
- weekend trips
- cash or cash equivalents (such as gift cards or gift certificates, loans, stock, stock options), and honoraria for company related activities
- personal charitable contributions on behalf of the employee
- “Quid pro quo” offerings - gifts that are given or taken in return for something else

All gifts, gratuities, and entertainment provided to any labor organization, officer, employee, agent, shop steward, or other representative of a labor organization (even if the person is a relative or friend) must be reported through the appropriate internal reporting process so that the required LM-10 reports may be filed with the Department of Labor.

To report an ethics or compliance concern, call the Integrity Helpline at 1-800-985-1056
When deciding about accepting gifts or entertainment, ask yourself:

- How would accepting or giving the gift or entertainment appear to others at Highmark Inc., my peers, or the general public?
- Will my giving or accepting of this gift influence what the company pays or is paid for its products, services, etc.?
- Should I give or accept this gift merely because “everybody else does it?”
- Is this gift being offered or given because my position enables me to influence a Highmark Inc. decision in favor of the customer or supplier?
- Does the gift or item of value comply with the company’s Gift and Entertainment Policy?
- By giving or accepting this gift, will I put myself, or appear to put myself, in a compromised position?

If you answered “yes” to any one of these questions, then declining the gift may be the appropriate action. Because each offering is different, contact the Integrity and Compliance Department for guidance before making a decision.

I am preparing for our annual employee golf outing. Can I request items from some of our suppliers to use as prizes for this event?

Should I accept those sporting event tickets offered by one of our customers?

Is it okay to have a lunch meeting where the supplier picks up the tab?

A Supplier has invited me to its corporate headquarters to evaluate some new hardware. The Supplier is out of the area, but offered to pay for my travel, lodging, and food expenses. May I accept this offer?

No. You must avoid any perception that your decision to buy the equipment is improperly influenced. If there is a business need, Highmark Inc. should pay for the expenses.

The Company’s Obligations as a Government Contractor
Guidelines for Government Programs

Highmark Inc. and certain Subsidiaries are government contractors under both federal and state contracts. In the course of your employment you may directly or indirectly perform services or work related to one or more of these contracts. When performing services related to one of these contracts, we must be cognizant of any additional requirements and obligations imposed by the government. It is Highmark Inc.’s policy to go beyond the minimum requirements for legal and regulatory compliance to avoid even the hint of any impropriety. In this regard, it is critical that everyone recognizes the applicable legal and regulatory obligations and that these obligations apply not only to employees in the dedicated government units but to all employees who support these government contracts.

Dealing with Excluded or Ineligible Persons

Highmark Inc. is prohibited by law or contractual provision under certain government contracts, from contracting or doing business with any person or entity that is currently debarred, suspended, excluded or declared ineligible to perform work under any government contract or subcontract. Highmark Inc. will not knowingly employ any individual who has been convicted of a criminal offense involving government business, is listed by a federal or state agency as suspended, debarred, excluded, proposed for debarment or suspension, or is otherwise excluded from federal or state program participation, for the purpose of fulfilling its obligations under certain contracts with the federal and state governments.

Bidding on Government Contracts

When bidding on or negotiating federal or state contracts, Highmark Inc. is subject to specific legal requirements. The Federal Procurement Integrity Act dictates certain business conduct for companies seeking to obtain work from the federal government. During the bidding process, we may not offer to discuss employment or business opportunities at Highmark Inc. with agency procurement officials; offer or give gratuities or anything of value to any agency procurement official; or, seek to obtain any confidential information about the selection criteria before the contract is awarded. Another federal law, the Truth in Negotiations Act, requires Highmark Inc. to certify cost and pricing data submitted to the government as “current, accurate, and complete.” It is Highmark Inc.’s policy to ensure that only accurate and complete information is provided to the government.

Procurement Compliance

As a government contractor, Highmark Inc. must adhere to a variety of government procurement laws and regulations such as prior notification and approval when amounts exceed certain dollar thresholds or when certain subcontracting requirements are met. Highmark Inc. must follow certain procedures to help ensure that we are paying the most appropriate costs for goods and services. In addition, Highmark Inc. must make sure that its contracts to procure goods and services for a government contract do not present actual, potential, or apparent conflicts of interest. To comply with the government’s diverse and complex procurement rules, Highmark Inc.’s procurement policies must be followed for all procurement activities. Procurement activities also must often be conducted on a competitive basis based on such factors as functionality, cost, quality, and any other relevant business factors.

With regard to fulfilling its obligations under its government contracts, Highmark Inc. will not knowingly enter into a contract with an entity that has been convicted of a criminal offense involving government business, listed by a federal agency as suspended, debarred, excluded, or proposed for debarment or suspension, or otherwise excluded from federal program participation.

Making Claims, Statements, and Representations to the Government

Contracts and subcontracts on government projects often require Highmark Inc. to submit various certifications. These contracts usually contain clauses wherein Highmark Inc. is required to make affirmative representations about a variety of matters in addition to financial data, such as compliance with socioeconomic programs, contract specifications, environmental laws, and various procurement regulations. These certifications and representations are serious matters. Highmark Inc. relies upon the truthfulness and accuracy of the information it receives from its employees and covered personnel when it submits these certifications. It is a violation of federal laws to knowingly make fraudulent claims or misleading statements to the government or to alter documents being processed in connection with claims against the government. A violation of these federal laws can lead to severe civil and criminal penalties against the individual and the company, and can lead, among other things, to sanction, debarment, or exclusion penalties. It may also be a violation of federal law if an employee makes little or no effort to validate the truth and accuracy of his or her statements, representations, claims; or, otherwise acts in a reckless manner as to the truth even if the individual is unaware that the data or information is false, or deliberately avoids finding out whether the statements, representations, or claims are true or false. Government officials rely on the accuracy of verbal and written statements of Highmark Inc. and its employees. These “statements” could include formal certifications, reports, or responses given during audits and even to conversations with government representatives. In every instance, it is the obligation of Highmark Inc. and all of its employees to provide accurate and complete statements to the government.

Allocating Appropriate Costs to Government Contracts

A cost that is a legitimate business expenditure for Highmark Inc. may be considered an unallowable cost under our contracts with the federal government. Under some government contracts, Highmark Inc. must certify that our cost submissions do not contain any unallowable costs.

We must charge all direct and indirect costs accurately to the appropriate contracts in accordance with the guidelines specified under the respective contract. Inflating time reporting or individual or department workload statistics is strictly prohibited as these statistics are often used as the basis to determine the cost allocation.

Gift Guidelines for Government Business

Under no circumstance should we offer money, gifts, services, entertainment, or anything of value, directly or indirectly, to any government official or employee in connection with a government contract.

Hiring Former and Current Government Employees

The federal government regulates the employment activities of current and former government employees in order to restrict employer companies from gaining an unfair competitive advantage. The terms of these restrictions vary according to the employment status and function of the government employee and what the employee’s role will be at Highmark Inc. These restrictions can last for varying periods of time from one year to a lifetime. It is Highmark Inc.’s policy to comply with all laws concerning the recruitment and employment of former and current government employees, either as employees or consultants. Before entering into employment discussions or negotiations with former or current federal, state, or local government employees, legislators, or members of their immediate families, whether initiated by you or them, seek approval from Highmark Inc. Human Resources and the Highmark Inc. Law Department.
Mandatory Disclosure Requirement

Contractor Business Ethics Compliance Program and Disclosure Requirements obligate federal contractors to disclose certain violations to the government. These provisions state that the agency suspension and debarment official may suspend or debar a contractor if it is determined that there was a knowing failure by a principal of the contractor to timely disclose to the government, in connection with the award, performance or closeout of a contract or subcontract thereunder, credible evidence of (a) a violation of federal criminal law involving fraud, conflict of interest, bribery, or gratuity violations in Title 18 of the U.S. Code; (b) a violation of the civil False Claims Act; or (c) significant overpayments on the contract.

As federal government contractors, Highmark Inc. and certain subsidiaries are obligated to timely disclose to the government, in writing, information regarding credible evidence of the conduct described above. For the purpose of this disclosure requirement, the term “principal” means an officer, member of the board of directors, owner, partner, or a person having primary management or supervisory responsibilities within a business entity (e.g., general manager, head of subsidiary, division, or business segment, and similar positions).

Prompt disclosure of all known facts and circumstances is to be made to the Integrity and Compliance Department to enable Highmark Inc. to properly assess such information and to determine whether it has an obligation to further investigate and/or make a disclosure to the government.

Marketing and Advertising Activities

Highmark Inc. is engaged in the marketing and sale of various health insurance products including Medicare Advantage and Prescription Drug plans. The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) imposes certain requirements related to the enrollment of Medicare beneficiaries in Medicare Advantage and Prescription Drug plans. In addition, (CMS) strictly regulates the marketing of these plans to beneficiaries. CMS requirements, applicable federal and state laws must be adhered to at all times.

Fraud, Waste and Abuse

Highmark Inc. is committed to preventing, detecting, correcting and reporting fraud, waste, and abuse. The efforts undertaken as part of these processes are collaborative in nature and involve training and education, monitoring and audits. All activities are consistent with applicable laws, regulations, and government healthcare program requirements. It is the responsibility of all employees to immediately report suspected or actual fraud, waste, and abuse.

What is Health Insurance Fraud?

Fraud is generally defined as knowingly and willfully executing, or attempting to execute, a scheme or artifice to defraud any health care benefit program or to obtain (by means of false or fraudulent pretenses representations, or promises) any of the money or property owned by, or under the custody or control of, any health care benefit program. (18 U.S.C. § 1347)

What is Health Insurance Waste?

Waste is overutilization of services or other practices that, directly or indirectly, result in unnecessary costs to the health care system. It is not generally considered to be caused by criminally negligent actions, but by the misuse of resources.

What is Health Insurance Abuse?

Abuse includes any action(s) that may, directly or indirectly, result in one or more of the following:

- Unnecessary costs to the health care system, including the Medicare and Medicaid programs
- Improper payment for services
- Payment for services that fail to meet professionally recognized standards of care
- Services that are medically unnecessary

Legal and Regulatory Compliance
We must carry out all of our activities in accordance with applicable federal and state laws, rules, regulations, guidance, and contractual obligations. We are required to obey all applicable laws, including laws that have application outside of the United States. Those who violate laws, rules, or regulations may be personally subject to individual civil or criminal liability as well as to disciplinary action. Our actions may also expose Highmark Inc. to civil or criminal liability or loss of business.

Competition and Antitrust Laws

The United States antitrust laws are designed to create a level playing field in the marketplace and to promote fair competition. Federal and state antitrust laws are intended to encourage such competition by prohibiting agreements that restrain trade, such as agreements by competitors regarding the price they will charge for their products. Other practices limiting competition, such as agreeing on product characteristics, dividing up markets, “rigging” bids for contracts and agreeing to boycott competitors or suppliers, may also violate the antitrust laws.

Under antitrust laws, competitors may not make agreements on the prices they will charge for products or services, the territories in which each company will sell products, customers to whom each company will offer its products, the sale of only certain types of products or the amount of any product each company will produce or offer for sale in the marketplace. In addition, competitors may not agree on the use or non-use of suppliers or on any contract terms and conditions.

Tying arrangements exist when one company conditions the sale of goods or services on the purchase of some other, unrelated good, or service. In certain circumstances, antitrust laws prohibit these arrangements. Employees should seek guidance from the Highmark Inc. Law Department if they have any questions or concerns.

Members of trade associations and other industry groups are, by their very nature, competitors. You must be particularly sensitive about trade association activities that might be construed as leading toward an agreement concerning prices or services.

Employees with sales and marketing responsibilities and agents and producers acting on behalf of Highmark Inc. are expected to be familiar with the prohibited activities and must comply with applicable antitrust laws.

Accepting or Offering Kickbacks and Gifts

We may not offer or accept any kickbacks, gifts, entertainment, gratuities, or anything of value from suppliers, providers, consultants, or government officials in exchange for an unfair competitive advantage. It is a violation of the federal Anti-Kickback Act to offer or accept “remuneration” (anything of value) in exchange, directly or indirectly, for a referral relating to a federally funded health care program, unless it falls within certain “safe harbors” specified under federal laws. Because these laws and the accompanying safe harbor provisions are complex, you should refer any questions or concerns regarding a specific transaction to the Highmark Inc. Law Department.

Local, state, and federal government agencies have strict rules describing if and when their employees can, or cannot, accept entertainment, meals, transportation, gifts, and other things of value from companies or people they regulate or with whom they do business. We are not permitted to give, or offer to give, to government employees any item, service, entertainment, meal, gift, or transportation, if giving or accepting it would violate any applicable law or regulation. Similarly, we shall not make loans, guarantee loans, or make payments to or on behalf of any local, state, or federal government employees.
QUESTION

What are examples of conduct that is considered unfair competition?

ANSWER

Unfair competition can include stealing or misusing a competitor’s trade secrets; making false statements about competitors or their products or services; obstructing competitors’ supply sources; and paying bribes to help increase company business or hurt a competitor.

Political Activities

Federal law restricts the use of corporate funds in connection with federal elections. There are similar laws in many states governing state and local elections. Examples of activities prohibited to be performed by employees running for elected office as a candidate or on behalf of a political candidate include, but are not limited to:

- Use of Highmark Inc.'s office supplies, facilities, or food services;
- Purchases of prizes by Highmark Inc. for use or consumption in a fundraiser; or Highmark Inc. operates a political action committee. The law permits corporations to establish such committees, usually referred to as PACs. All exempt level employees of Highmark Inc. and its federally-taxable subsidiaries and affiliates are eligible to join the PAC and make voluntary contributions to it. Highmark PAC also accepts voluntary contributions from the exempt level employees of the federally tax-exempt parent and its subsidiaries and affiliates.

Funds contributed to the PAC are permitted to be used for contributions to candidates for elected office. Other than through the PAC, no contribution to federal candidates for elected office can be made on behalf of Highmark Inc. Highmark Inc. makes corporate contributions to federal, state and local candidates and campaign committees where permissible. Contact the Highmark Inc. Government Affairs Department if you have any questions regarding political activities.

Highmark Inc. recognizes everyone’s freedom of choice regarding political matters. As individuals, employees may, of course, choose to participate in the political process on their time and in the manner they choose. Highmark Inc. cannot and will not reimburse employees for any personal activities or personal political contributions. Additionally, employees may not use their position to coerce another member of the workforce to work for a candidate or political organization, or to make private, personal contributions to a party or candidate.

Federal and state laws impose significant criminal penalties for bribing any public official, governmental employee, or candidate for public office. Specifically, these laws prohibit us from offering or giving anything of monetary value (such as a gift, loan, contribution, reward, or promise of employment) to any public official, public employee, or candidate for public office—or any member of their immediate family—based on our understanding that his or her vote, official action, or judgment could be influenced as a result.

Congress has adopted strict rules generally prohibiting the provision of gifts, including travel, to members of Congress and congressional staff members. Additional restrictions apply to Executive Branch officials. State laws may also restrict making gifts or providing other things of value to certain public officials.
